

What accreditation means

Accreditation by the Merkos - COJE NAB is proof that a yeshiva or day school's Limudei Kodesh and general academic studies programs meet the highest standards of both the educational and Chinuch worlds.

Additionally, the Merkos - COJE NAB has developed cooperative accreditation processes with a number the U.S. regional elementary and high school commissions, which allows a school to enjoy the most prestigious form of accreditation available in the U.S. or abroad.

Most importantly, accreditation means that support, trust, and involvement in a school will begin at the grass roots level and percolate through every level of a community. It frequently translates into corporate and educational-foundation support. Moreover with the mood in Washington shifting in favor of private education, accreditation will render a school eligible for government funding which is expected to grow exponentially in the years ahead.
